LOCOMOTIVE FIREMEN.

Their Biennial Convention Opened at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] The biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Loco-motivo Firemen met in this city today. The session was very brief and an adjournment was taken until this after-journment was taken until this afternoon, when a public reception was given the visiting firemen by local members of the Brotherhood. Addresses of welcome were made by Gov. Waterman, Mayor E. B. Pond and M. A. Dorn, the latter on behalf of the Native Sons of the Goldea West, who are now conducting the celebration of Admission day in this city.

Grand Master Frank P. Sargent responded. In his address he gave a review of the work of the Brotherhood, and said the order did not advocate strikes and had always endeavored to avoid them, but when occasion demanded the Brotherhood would yield the weapon which organized labor had provided for its membership, to strike and strike hard.

The visiting firemen will take part in the Admission day parade tomorrow.

Two minutes previous the flagman had discovered several ties standing endways, in a culvert near old Troy, and when he took hold of one of them to remove it he was fired upon from the bushes on the east side of the track. Knowing that the fast express was nearly due, he ran southward and set the danger signal fiagman said the ties stuck up above the rails and would have certainly thrown the train from the track. The fast train was composed of seven or eight sleeping cars, all full, two ordinary coaches and a baggage car. There were eight ties turned up on the main track, and also two ties placed alongside the track toward the south so as to ditch the train.

The stuck up at Sonoms found the American settlers ready to take a hand.

A Momentous Event in the Nation's History.

Fortieth Anniversary of California's Entry Into the Union.

Her Admission Only Achieved After a Long, Fierce Struggle.

Political History of the State-The Pioneers and Native Sons and Daughters-Exercises at the Pavilion.

The admission of California into the Union, which took place 40 years ago today, was an event of such momentous importance in the history of the nation that its celebration might well be observed by others than those who dwell within its borders. It entered with the last of that series of compromises by which the struggle between the slave-power and the spirit of freedom had been marked—the first of them in which a decided element of victory lay with the North. The admission achieved only after a long and flerce struggle, full of exciting episodes and dramatic incidents, and the outcome in a measure presaged the events which were to follow a few years later, in the great Civil War. There are only three other States in the Union which entered or were organized as Territories under auspices in any way to be compared with those which attended the admission of California; these were Missouri, Kansas and Ne-

To explain the peculiar circum-stances under which California became a member of the Union, it is necessary to run back over some of the preced ing chapters of its history-the most romantic and entertaining that can be told of any of the galaxy of States. Early in the year 1846 John C. Frémont, the famous pathfinder, made his way, through many his and trials, overland the coast in search of shortest route from the Missouri River to the Pacific. The feeling against the Americans had already reached such a pitch, that before Frémont was more than well into the State Gen. Castro issued an order demanding that he return whence he came. Gen. Frémont refused to obey, but no hostile meeting took place at the lime.

other Mexican officers were captured in the town of Souoma.

Frémont then marched into the Sacramento Valley and on the 4th of July, 1846—the proper day of all the year for such an undertaking—the independence of California was declared. Hostilities soon came to an end. Frémont was ordered back to Washington and Gen. Kearney began his administration as Governor of the Territory March 2, 1847. On May 31st he turned over the office to Col. Richard B. Mason.

Mile and a furlong: Sam Wood won, Blackthorne second, Birthday third. Time, 1:572.

Mile and three-sixteenths: Description of the war of the United States with Mexico came the treaty of Guadaloupe Hidalgo, news of which was received in San Francisco August 6,1848. The Territory was now American and under the general laws of the United States. Property rights on Mexicoan grants and titles to land were to be respected, and all who were dissatisfied with the new rule were given a year to decide whether they would leave the country or cast their fortunes in with the new Territory. Gov. Mason issued a proclamation, in which he assured all inhabitants of the State that they would be respected in the rights and privileges which they enjoyed.

The American settlers were not satisfied, however, with the Mexican system of law and court procedure which still maintained in force, and they still maintained in force, and they looked for immediate action by Congress which should establish the newly-acquired land under some definite form of Territorial government. In obedience to this sentiment, President Polk called attention in a special message to Congress to the needs of the new Territory and asked that something he done.

thing be done. The necessity for action was height-ened by the fact that the news of the discovery of gold, which was made January 19, 1848, had spread all through the Union, and hordes of adthrough the Union, and hordes of adventurous spirits were looking toward the new land. The rush to the coast did not begin, however, until the succeeding year; but, as soon as it was well under way, it was evident to all who were closely watching the trend of affairs at Washington that the great questions at stake between the North and South would soon be complicated by the demand of California for admission to Statehood.

As the State began to settle up rap-

Mission to Statehood.

As the State began to settle up rapidly under the influence of the gold fever, the shortcomings of the existing laws became more painfully evident. held in Sacramento, San José and San Francisco for the election of delegates to a convention for the forming of a provisional government. In the meanime great confusion prevailed in city affairs, where no definite form of government prevailed, and the Territorial Governorship was divided up in a way that tended to bring about hopeless chaos. Old Bennett Riley, who succeeded Mason as Governor, was a firm, clear-headed man, and it was in a considerable degree due to his influence that the Territory was kept out of serious difficulties.

In June, 1849, the first meeting to arrange for a provisional government was held at Sacramento. It was followed by a proclamation from Governor Riley calling for a special election of delegates to a convention to meet Monterey, in September, which should complete the Territorial organization and formulate a constitution under which application for Statchood could be made. He also issued a second proclamation in which he deciared that the people of San Francisco were usurping powers vested [Continued on second page.]

only in Congress, in their efforts to make laws for themselves. Almost at the same time with the issuance of this proclamation came news from Wash-ington for which all had been anxiously waiting. The disgust was universal when it was learned that not only had the national lawmakers refused to do the national lawmakers refused to do anything to help the new Territory out of its difficulties, but had voted to in-clude the coast in the general revenu-laws and had sent a collector to levy the duties.

laws and had sent a collector to levy the duties.

This was in June, 1849. The proceedings in Congress had taken place during the previous winter. At the opening of the second session of the Thirtieth Congress, in December, 1848, President Polk had again presented the claims of California and asked for action. The wrangle which followed lasted through the entire session, and exceeded in bitterness any which the present younger generation has every beheld. A variety of measures were proposed and abandoned, that of the Judiciary Committee in the House being to divide the Territory into two sections, a North and a South California, A bill was finally reported for the organization of Territorial governments in Oregon, New Mexico and California, leaving the question of slavery to the Supreme Court. This passed the House but was defeated in the Sonate. A mere amendment to the appropriation bill providing for the collection of House but was defeated in the Senate.

A mere amendment to the appropriation bill providing for the collection of revenue in California (thereby recognizing its existence as a Territory,) came near causing the defeat of the whole bill when it came before the conservative upper body. The session ended with the incoming of the new administration of Taylor and Fillmore just as the fight was flercest and the issue most uncertain.

administration of Taylor and Fillmore just as the fight was fiercest and the issue most uncertain.

On the first day of September, 1849, the Constitutional Convention met at Monterey, in a building known as Colton's Hall. A population of about 40,000 people was represented, increasing at a rate that showed it was soon to pass the number usually demanded by Congress for the admission of a new State. The number of delegates had first been fixed at 37, and then increased to 73, but only 48 actually took part in the convention. Of these, it may be interesting to note, 22 were from free States, 15 from slave States, 7 were old residents of California and 4 of for-ign birth. Robert Semple was elected president, and W. G. Marcy acted as secretary.

It was decided to proceed at once to the formation of a State government and a committee appointed for the purpose, reported a general declaration of rights. An amendment was offered by W. E. Shannon declaring that neither slavery nor involuntary servitude should ever exist in the State. An effort was made by the pro-slavery men to add to this a provision that free negroes should not be allowed to live in the State, but this was defeated, and Mr. Shannon's amendment adopted. The pro-slavery men were led by Wm. M. Gwin of Mississippi, who had come out a few months previous for the express purpose of starting the new State under the Southern plan. The action of the convention, however, defeated this hope.

the Southern plan. The action of the convention, however, defeated this hope.

The constitution which was then adopted served until the days of Dennis Kearney, it was largely modeled on that of New York State. The boundaries were settled much as they exist today. There was a most deal of discussion over the seal, which resulted in the adoption of the present design.

The convention was promptly followed by a very lively political campaign, in which Peter H. Burnett ran against W. S. Sherwood, Capt. Sutter and others for the office of Governor. Burnett was elected, the total vote being very small. On the 15th of December, 1849, the first Legislature met at San José in an unfinished wooden structure politely called a capitol. The sixteen Senators were for several weeks compelled to meet at a private residence. There were several candidates for the soon-to-be United States Senatorships. Frémont and Gwin were elected. George W. Wright and Edward Gilbert had been chosen Representatives by the people. This was the legislative gathering which was ever after known by the nick-name of "A Thousand Drinks."

In the meantime the great fight was commencing in Congress which was to end commencing in Congress which was to end many months later in the compromise measures of Henry Clay and the admission of the State. The main features of his plan were that all of the land ceded of the State. The main leathers of his plan were that all of the land ceded by Mexico, except California, should be made into Territorial governments without restrictions of any kind as to slavery; Congress was not to interfere with the slave trade between the slaveholding States, and the Fugitive Slave Law was to be more rigidly enforced. California was to be admitted as one State, and slavery was forever to be prohibited within its borders.

The compromise from the point of view of the present appears to be rather in the favor of the South than the North, but at the time, although goposed by the Abolitionists and Freesoilers, who occupied the position of "no compromise with the evil of slavery," it involved one great point which operated in favor of the North.

slavery," it involved one great point which operated in favor of the North. It was practically the abrogation of the Missouri Compromise, and settled the question of whether the territory south of Mason and Dixon's line could be saved from the encroachment of the slave power. This fact was thoroughly understood by the shrewdest leaders of the South, who, with Jefferson Davis at their head, fought the progress of the compromise inch by inch, and who, when it finally passed the Senate, entered a formal protest against the measure. measure.

The bill was sent down from the Senate toward the end of the session and came up for a final vote in the House on September 7, 1850. Frantic attempts were made to resist its passage, in which even the Speaker, Howell Cobb, joined. It finally passed by 150 ayes to 56 nays. It was sent to President Fillmore, who had succeeded to the chief magistracy on the death of President Taylor, and received his signature on the 9th of September, 40 years ago today.

The news was received in San Francisco by a steamer from Panama on the 18th of October. It was the Oregon, one of the best known of the line, and for a long time afterwards famous as the bearer of the good news. As soon as she entered the harbor she fired a salute, which informed the people that the long-wished-for end had been gained and the new State had been received into the sisterhood. The citizens hurried to the water from, flags were raised on every house-top, guns and cannon were fired and an ight great bonfires were lighted in honor of the event. Ten days later a grand celebration took place, in which everyone, even the Chinese, assisted. There was a procession and literary exercises, salutes and a display of fire works. "Columbia's Chickens" and the March of the States-Poem by Mrs. Eliza A. Otis-Other Interesting Features.

Hazard's Pavilion was well filled last evening to witness the Admission day celebration. The programme, as heretofore published, was carried out to the letter, and without the slightest hitch, and it is safe to say that every one present was delighted and went home well pleased with the evening's entertainment. A few minutes past 8 o'clock the Ninth Regiment band of Pomona opened the exercises with selections from Faust.

"Columbia's Chickens," the 13 originai colonies, then took possession of the stage and presented a pretty picture. The little ones were dressed in red, white and blue and showed evidences white and blue and showed evidences of having been well trained. Following are the names of the little girls: Ethel Baldwin, Florence Johnson, Ruby Brown, Pearl King, Emma Dailey, Pearl White, Rena Stombs, Sadie Stombs, Gracie Case, Annie Sievert, Daisy Weller, Ada Griswold, Laura Griswold.

The most interesting feature of the entertainment was the grand march of 44 young ladies dressed in white, carrying flags and shields representing the States of the Union. The Goddess of Liberty, Miss Minnie G. Sullivan, sat on a throne in the stage center, surrounded by the 13 original States.

THE PIONEERS AND NATIVE

The Organization, Growth and Increasing influence of the Orders-Their Alms and Ob-Jects-Membership.

The celebration of Admission day is chiefly in the hands of two organizations, each unique and interesting in character and each indigenous to the soil of California. These are the "Society of California Pioneers" and the "Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West." The latter contains two organizations, which may as far as aim and general character are concerned be classed as one.

The Pioneers organized in 1850, in the year that the State was admitted to the Union. Originally to become a member it was neccessary that one should have arrived in the State pre-vious to the first of January 1850. A few years ago the constitution was amended in such a way as to allow the sons of Pioneers to become members. This arrangement keeps the society well infused with young blood, for the original members are now nearly all of them over fifty years of age.

The objects of the association are stated to be "to cultivate social intercourse, form a more perfect union among its members and create a fund for charitable purposes in their behalf; for charitable purposes in their behalf; also to collect and preserve. information connected with the early settlement and subsequent history of the country, and to form a library and cabinet and preserve such literary and scientific objects as the board of directors may frem time to time determine, and in all appropriate matters to advance the interests and perpetuate the memory of those whose sagacity and enterprise induced them to settle in the wilderness and become the founders of a new State." ers of a new State.'

In San Francisco the organization is rich and influential, and since the first celebration of Admission day on the 29th of October, 1850, has done much to keep alive the spirit of the days of 40

THE NATIVE SONS.

The younger organizations, the Native Sons and the Native Daughters are coming forward rapidly to fill the place left vacant by the gradual passing away of the original pioneers and today they exercise a powerful influence in maintaining the sentiment of ence in maintaining the sentiment of patriotism to the State. The organization of the Native Sons was effected on the 29th of June, 1875. Since that time it has spread with marvelous rapidity and at present it numbers a membership of about eight thousand.

5 The idea for the organization originated with Gen. A. M. Winn. When John McComb, the grand mar-shal of the parade, inserted an advertisement in the daily papers saking all young men whose birthplace was in the State to meet in the Police was in the State to meet in the Police Court room. A small but enthusiastic gathering took place on the evening of June 29th, and Gen. Winn, who was present, proposed that a permanent organization be formed. The idea met with immediate favor. Miles F. O'Donnell was chosen as chairman and Louis D. Patrick, secretary. A committee was appointed to complete the organization, and meetings were committee was appointed to complete the organization, and meetings were held on July 1st, 2nd and 4th.

The first meeting under the constitution was held July 11, 1875. The present title of the society was then adopted and regular officers elected. The 25th anniversary of Admission day following on the 9th of September, the new organization took charge of the ceremonies conducted in its honor. At a meeting held shortly afterward a declaration of principles was adopted setting forth that "the Society of the Native Sons of the Golden West was Native Sons of the Golden West was organized for the mutual benefit, mental improvement and social intercourse of its members; to perpetuate in the minds of all native Californians the memories of one of the most wonderful epochs in the world's history—the days of 199; to units, them in one the days of '49: to unite them in one harmonious body throughout the State by the ties of a friendship mutually beneficial to all and unalloyed by the beneficial to all and unalloyed by the bitterness of religious or political differences, the discussion of which is most stringently forbidden in its meetings; to elevate and cultivate the faculties; to rejoice with one another in prosperity, and to extend the 'Good Samaritan' hand in adversity.'

Up to December, 1877, the original San Francisco organization known at first as Charter Parlor but afterwards as California Parlor No. 1.

as California Parlor No. 1, constituted the entire order. At that time a number of Native Sons living in Oakland applied for the privilege of organizing under the same name and badge. On December 30th the branch parlor was organized. Then came a similar application from Sacramento. By this time a constitution was adopted which would admit of the general enwhich would admit of the general enlargement of the order through all the States and Territories west of the Rockies, and a Grand Parlor was constituted to consist of delegates from each body in the order. The first Grand Parlor met November 30, 1878.

From this time forth the organization of the order spread rapidly throughout California and into the neighboring States and Territories. Today there is scarcely a town in the State of any size that has not its parlor. In this city there are two, both in vigorous condition, and steadily increasing in membership. They are Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 and Ramona Parlor No. 109.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS.

The Native Daughters of the Golden West was organized in September 1886, in the town of Jackson, Amadon county. On the 25th of July, 1887, the first meeting of its Grand Parlor was held. This organization bears the re-lation to that of the Native Sons, which-its name indicates. Its mem-bership is largely made up of the sis-ters and wives of the Native Sons, and its aims as an organization are of a similar sort. It numbers over two thousand members and is in a prosperous and growing condition.

In Forty Years.
[San Francisco Bulletin, Sept. 6.]
Two days or more will be devoted next week to the celebration of forty years of Statehood for California. It will have greater significance than any other public demonstration ever made in the State with the single exception.

of the celebration that occurred fosty years ago. That was an historic sevent. The foundations of the Commonwealth had just been laid, but the State was largely in the future. There were no "Native Sons" to take part in that ploneer celebration, save a few native Californians, who had witnessed the great change from a Mexican province to an American State. The pioneers had a great day. The State had escaped the blight of slavery. The Constitution was one of the beat ever adopted by a new State. The struggle over, the question of admission of California as a free State had been safely passed. Once in the Union the State would remain there, held by an indissoluble bond. Later still it escaped the great peril of secession, and contributed of its men and treasure to preserve that Union of which it was an integral part.

In all these 40 years there has been a continuation of pioneer work. It is not all done even now. If the latest estimates of population are accepted, there are now twenty States in the Union with a population less than that of California. It is this million and a quarter of people or more who will be especially interested in the celebration on the 9th inst. The ploueers will be present with thinned ranks. Many of them are in other States, more have gone to their long homes. The greater part of that early immigration was made up of comparatively young men. Old men did not like to encounter the risks and hardships, and if in comfortable circumstances most of them would not. The young men who came by land or water had little monay. A few able circumstances most of them would not. The young men who came by land or water had little money. A few dollars were, as a rule, all that re-mained after reaching the Pacific coast. mained after reaching the Pacific coast. A very few, who were able, took the precaution to provide a margin to return, but the multitude did not and could not. They came to create wealth, first for themselves and afterward for the State. Up to the time of admission there was very little permanent wealth in California. The larger proportion of treasure which the placers yielded was sent away. Pioneers sent it home to their families. Those who had none sent it back to pay debts. Many a young man had come to the country on advances made by friends. They knew that if he succeeded they would get their money back. If he did not succeed, there was still the savor of a good deed.

ceeded they would got their money back. If he did not succeed, there was still the savor of a good deed.

The young State was poor with all the show of affluence. But it was rich in hope and energy. There were, perhaps, half a dozen fruit orchards in bearing, and about as many vineyards attached to some of the old missions. Many a pioneer was glad to fill his pockets with apples at a dollar aplece, and only in favored localities could they find them at that price. The roads were little more than trails that afterward had been widened by the use of wheels. The great majority of the people lived in tents at mining camps. San Francisco was a city of perhaps 20,000 people, crowded into the smallest wooden buildings ever provided for so large a population. All the necessaries of life were brought by ships from abroad. The great area of the State was lying in waste, waiting for the plow and the reaper.

For 40 years there has been a pretty steady development of national resources. With all this progress it may be said that hardly more than a beginning has been made. Probably never were the industries of the State creating more wealth than now. Men turn their labor into capital, whether in the ledd, the workabop or the forest. This aggregation of capital is constantly streams.

attactsing new enterprises. There is greater breadth and boldness of plan and execution. But the common wealth is still comparatively new. Only a small portion of the cultivated farms, vineyards and orchards that will yet appear have been developed to good condition. There are still great areas of unbroken land inviting occupation. There are cities to be built where as yet hardly more than a single dwelling marks the site. Contrasted with the condition 40 years ago, a great work condition 40 years ago, a great work has been accomplished. These fair cities and towns, the schools and col leges, the sails that whiten the bay and the steamers that vex the waters, the roads that have become arteries of trade, attest in some degree the great-roads that have become arteries of trade, attest in some degree the greatness of the work.

At least two generations of the descendants of the ploneers will join in the celebration about to begin. The criticism has been more than once made that California has neither grandfathers nor grandmothers. But the younger generation attest that they are now here. The ploneers look upon their grandfuldren and are glad.

These two generations are of the soil. The winders and provided for in people, in the morning of life, full of hope and energy, are the builders of the still greater commonwealth of the future. The ploneers are about to lay down the work. The State is rapidly passing into the hands of these future. The ploneers are about to lay down the work. The pioneers are about to lay down the work. The State is rapidly passing into the hands of these younger generations. The "Native Son" is everywhere and the daughter, too, for that matter. The native population, great and small, probably outnumbers all the rest. That is one of the most decisive gains of the State. The immigrant of our own That is one of the most decisive gains of the State. The immigrant of our own race is welcomed, whether his former home was near or afar. But this native population, maturing and growing so rapidly from year to year, is becoming the mainspring of the common wealth. It will lay hold of every form of industrial development. It will guide the educational interests and shore the political tional interests and shape the political polity of the State. These are the new builders which have come and are coming to the front. They will give the greatest significance to the celebration of the Ninth of September.

A Huntington Rumor. Yesterday there was a rumor afloat among real-estate men that President Huntington of the Southern Pacific had made Col. Baker an offer for his interest in the Baker & Jones ranch at Santa Monica. It was also ranch at Santa Monica. It was also said that Mr. Huntington, through agents, is looking for a suitable location, and will build a handsome winter residence in this city. No one seemed to know anything definite, either as to the terms of the proposed purchase, or who is carrying on the negotiations, but all seemed to believe there is something in the report.

But No Business Transacted fo Want of a Quorum - Messages from the Mayor and Clerk.

The City Hall presented a deserte appearance yesterday. It being a legal holiday all the offices were closed and no ousiness of any kind was transacted Clerk Teed remained in his office during the morning, but went home at noon, and did not return. The library was open during the entire day, but all visitors had to climb the steps, as the elevator was not running, the engineer and elevator boy also being off for a holiday, and the same state of affairs will probably prevail today.

THE COUNCIL. The Council met at 10 o'clock yesterday morning as usual, with President Frankenfield in the chair, and Councilmen Hamilton, McLain and Sum-meriand present. As these gentlemen did not constitute a quorum, and there being no business of any special im-portance, an adjournment was had to the regular hour on Monday next.

SEVERAL MESSAGES. Two messages from the Mayor were filed with the City Clerk yesterday morning, but as there was not a qu rum present, no action was taken by the Council. One of the messages was a second veto of the Sunday saloon-closing election ordinance, and the other was with reference to certain statements made by Councilman Bon-sall in regard to the piping of the woolen mill ditch, that gentleman having disputed, on the floor of the Council, certain statements made by

The second message regarding the woolen mill ditch, is as follows:

To the Honorable Council of the City of Los Angeles: Gentlemen—In my message to your honorable body at your last meeting I returned unsigned the contract with J. D. Hooker, in which I took eccasion to use the following language: "By the terms of this contract it will cost the city $8614.25. It is only three years since a sheet-iron pipe was laid by the city along the same route, and now we are called upon to replace it with new sheet-iron pipe."

This statement was disputed by the chairman of the Board of Public Works, in that he states that the pipe was laid four years ago at the expense of the city, and on the strength of such statement your honorable body ordered this contract approved, netwithstanding my vote.

This to be regretted that a statement made from the record with a full knowledge of the facts should be set aside on the word of the chairman of the Board of Public Works, who obtained this information, if any, from mere street rumor, and not from a correct source when it is easy obtainable.

To lay this pipe in 1887 the city paid out in coin $3020,32, this in addition to $5000 advanced by private parties, viz: B. F. Conter paid $1000 and H. C. Witmer paid $2500; total, $3500.

The total cost of the work was $11,526.32, from which $3500 and hy private parties as above, must be deducted, leaving a balance of $8020.32, which was paid by the city.

But it is a time honored custom, if not absolute law, that the Mayor should sign all contracts or agreements in behalf of the city, and it seems to me that no exception should be made to this rule unless the Mayor beabsent, under disability, or, after due consideration of his refusal, he is found to be unreasonable in the matter. due consideration of his ferusal, he is found to be unreasonable in the matter.

The City Clerk remembers having signed but one contract during the years that he has held his office, and he has lived to regret that act and does not aspire to sign another.

A HOUSE ROBBED BY A COUPLE OF CHILDREN.

The Boys Only Eight Years of Age Systematic Petty Stealing from Back Yards and Front Porches.

For some days past complaints have been made at the Police Station about petty thieving out on Grand avenue and in the vicinity of the Washington Garden. The losses were generally of such a trivial character that the police came to the conclusion that the thieves were either tramps or boys, and a watch was kept, but nothing was discovered. Several weeks ago the room of Mr. Kramer, on Main street, was robbed, and a lot of wearing apparel taken. Shortly after this robbery one of the coats was found in the po session of a tramp, who claimed that it had been given him by a boy. The tramp was locked up for a day or two but the officers were unable to get any evidence against him, and he was released.

A few nights ago a wheelbarrow was taken from the back yard of the Hotel Amidon, and a chair from the house next door, and several small articles also disappeared from the premises of Dr. Smith, at the corner of Grand avenue and Washington street. Yesterday afternoon, while Mounted Officer Sanchez was out in the neighborhood, he was told that the house of Dr. Kierulff, on Twenty-third street, had been broken into. The doctor and his family are at Long Beach, so that the extent of the robbery could not be as-certained, but as the officer had seen a colored boy named Frank Washington. certained, but as the officer had seen a colored boy named Frank Washington, aged 8 years, who lived at the corner of Washington and Main streets, with a white boy, also aged about 8 years, named Johnnie Everest, who lived on Los Angeles street, playing in the streets in the neighborhood of where the thefts had taken place, he concluded to take them to the station, and see what they knew. They were accordingly taken to the Chief's office, where they were questioned at length, and freely admitted everything. The colored boy said that he had stolen the clothing, most of which he had given away, and had also made way with the wheelbarrow, other and other articles.

In regard to the Klerulff robbery, Washington said that young Everest had told him that the family was away from the house, and proposed that they go in and see what they could find. They then got into a side window, and stole a silver watch, with a gold chain, $2 in money and some cigarette pictures. They divided the money, each taking $1, and started out to enjoy themselves.

At the present time there is much inquiry for property such as ours and we think that the coming vear will enable us to dispose of sufficient to give us large and satisfactory returns. The platform was lined with people who were bidding each other a most affectionate good-bye, when a snort was heard to mitte vicinity of the gate which leads to the waiting rooms, and a big African of yellow hue was noticed elbowing his way through the crowd. He was heard to mutter in a savage tone of volce:

"Dat tallow-faced mug what runs de Nadean-house news stand hab got hisse't in dis chile's debt to de'stent ob $27, an' I'se gwine to hab dat hardearned coin or I'il took dat putty-faced chap an' broke his neck." SERIOUS STABBING AFFRAY BETWEEN DETECTIVES.

Capt. Moody, Formerly of Lawson's Patrol, Stabbed by Lawson's Brother-The Cause of the Difficulty.

A few minutes past 11 o'clock last night quite a serious stabbing affray took place on North Main street in front of the Lanfranco block. Just before the fight occurred, Capt. Capt. Moody stated that he believes the Lawsons were looking for him and "intended to do him up." but Culver says the meeting was purely accidental and Capt. Lawson was not looking for trouble for the reason that he was not rmed and was then on his way home. Charley Lawson has only been here a few weeks and is hardly known in the city.

THE annual illustrated edition of the Los Angeles Herald has made its appearance. It is handsomely printed and profusely illustrated, the work ng been done in San Francisco. A hasty glance at its contents shows it to be loaded to the gunwales, so to speak, with a cargo of meaty topics pertaining to the growth and development of Los Angeles county and Southern California. This edition ought to prove of great value to the country, and deserves general circulation. These special editions of our local newspapers are of far more benefit to the region and the people than to the publishers, who put forth great effort and incur large expense for the general good, without, in most cases, any adequate returns.

FORTY YEARS OF STATEHOOD.

Today marks the completion of an era in the history of California, and the event is now being celebrated by its people with an enthusiasm that may fairly be described as unprecedented of its kind. Even while the sound of martial music, of the cheers of the crowd and the eloquent voices of the orators of the day are ringing in our ears, there may arise in many minds the inevitable are the contract of the day are ringing in our ears, there may arise in many minds the inevitations of the contract able contrast of the prosperous present with the trials and tribulations and often gloomy outlook of the weary past.

Forty years ago today, when this great State, immense in its then dreary area, and big with undeveloped possi bilities, was admitted to the Union, he who would have truthfully foretold its future would have been regarded as a dreamer and a visionary enthusiast. And, indeed, the swift revolving years have wrought a revolution nothing less than marvelous. Less than three hundred years ago California was depicted on the maps as an island, and for long years its fields lay fallow and its golden treasures bid, waiting the advent of the white pioneers whose coming was to bring about a revolution that would move the world to wonder. . And when the discovery of gold brought the motley crowd of adventurers of every clime to these shores they came only with the desire of getting rich and getting away as soon as possible. It was never dreamed then that the brown soil of the bare hills and valleys was waiting only to be tickled with the plow to laugh with a harvest, and a harvest of a hundred fold in its prolific quantity. Little by little, practical men found out the and the culture of the soil began in earnest. From a dry and uninteresting country, the temporary abiding place of a roving population, California became the home of the farmer and stock-raiser. The feverish thirst for gold-hunting and the lawless passions of reckless communities were gradually supplanted by the reign of order, and a society of producers grew up, men who today are the backbone and sinew of our commonwealth. Vast tracts of land once valued as worthless, the home of the coyote and apparently the dreariest waste of deserts, are now proud domains where wheat is grown in single fields so large that to circle them is a day's journey for the laboring team; the hills and valleys are now over with thrifty orchards and delightful vineyards, and not a fruit of sunny France or smiling Spain but what is here found growing with an easy luxuriance that all the care of cultivation in the older countries cannot equal.

The fruits, the wine, the wheat, the horses and the mineral products of California today command the admiration and the custom of the civilized world. The lesson of this anniversary world. The lesson of this anniversary may be found in these facts. The grand future of our State is based on the efforts of the tillers of the soil, the producers whose noble work, great as it is, has but just begun.

The visions of the Argonauts of '49, wild as they were, are to be surpassed by the realizations of the immediate The ploneers pictured the boundless wealth of yellow gold, but the men who today are developing the resources of the soil in its cultivation are unearthing more wealth than was ever delved out of our mineral mountains. The strike is over; the strikers were in the wrong; they did not go out on a question of wages: neither was it a political question; the affair had small importance except to the unwise men who abandoned, without any sufficient cause or excuse, their lucrative employments and locked themselves out. Col. Markham has had nothing to do with the matter, from beginning to end, in any way, and cannot be drawn into a dispute which never had any reason for existence, and which is now ended. These are the facts in the case. Let anybody who will make the most of it—so they confine themselves to the truth.

FRESNO AND CHESTER ROWELL

Press advices from Fresno show the existence of deep and widespread disappointment over the defeat of Dr Chester Rowell for the Congressional nomination. But the Republicans of the great interior valley are made of sterling stuff; they are fighters from away back, and we shall hope and expect to see them do their full duty in the campaign. As for Dr. Rowell himself, he is one of the most conspicuous examples of fidelity to nciple that we know of where. He has the courage of his convictions in the fullest measure, and he has more than once been constrained to defend them from personal assault. He is a very pioneer of pioneers in Republicanism in his section of the State. He established the Fresno Republican newspaper and conducted it for three years, at the same time practicing his medical art, and time practicing his medical art, and the toils and anxieties of his dual professions silvered his hair, though he is not yet 45 years old. It is related of him that he was sometimes compelled to write his editorials with a pelled to write his editorials with a given him so wide a reputation as an artist-six-shooter at his side, and that, in the intervals of watching by the bedside of a patient, he wrote paragraphs for his paper. His loyalty has never been questioned nor his Republicanism impeached. He deserves the confidence of the Republicans of the Sixth District. trict. With less noise and fewer pre tenses than some others, he will, we doubt not, be found doing more faithful service in the supreme mement of conflict. All honor to such men and such Republicans.

SOUNDS FROM SAN DIEGO.

From out the roar of general rejoicing over the Congressional nomination which comes up from San Diego proceed some inharmonious sounds, show ing the presence of the malign and sinister spirit of disaffection and disorganization. One of Mr. Bowers's home organs, the Sun, feels called upon to read the riot act to County Clerk Hamilton, whom it accuses of a long-entertained desire to conspire against and 'wipe up the ground with' the Congressional nominee. The Sun thereupon proceeds to give Hamilton a vicious swipe across his official countenance, intimating very broadly that his continuance in office for sixteen years more would be likely to result in general bankruptcy for the community. There are other evidences among Mr. Bowers's home supporters of the existence of party disturbances. There are too many outcroppings of vicious ness and venom against one or the other, indicating the presence of pri-vate and factional ill-will, which, if continued, can result only in harm.

THE TIMES knows nothing about the merits of these contentions, or any of the numerous quarrels in which the San Diego Republi-cans have been involved; but in the interest of that harmony which is necessary to success, we again suggest that they now compose their differences and unite as one man in the work of fulfilling those loud and flamboyant promises with which they have for months been loading the air, namely, that with Bowers as the nominee they would sweep the county, bury the Democrats, and, coming northward, cross the line at Capistrano with a more or less fabulous majority for the Republican nominee. Gentlemen, the way to harmonize is to harmonize. Let us have results! While the remainder of the district is girding itself for the frav. it would be a great farce after her loud professions, should San Diego fail in her duty through internecine party dissensions. The county has been given her choice; now let her not disappoint the Republicans of Los An geles and the remainder of this great district!

THE OPENING OF THE GUNS.

The Republican State campaign opens next Saturday night. All over California, from Siskiyou to the Mexican line, and from the mountains to the sees, the Republican watchfires will be alight and the Republican banners dying. The campaign will open and pictously for our side, because we have a sound platform and a winning candidate standing will. date standing upon it. Fortunately for our cause, the State Convention wisely refused to compromise and entangle itself by injudicious and unnecessary indorsements of high officials, but boldly arraigned the Democratic majority in the late Legislature, and with it a false Republican executive, condemning them both for inordinate extravagance and shameless profligacy with the people's money. The action of the convention places the party in an advantageous attitude and in splendid fighting trim. We are compelled to make no defensive campaign, but can wage an aggressive battle from start to finish. In Los Angeles the campaign will be opened by the Hon. M. M. Estee. a bold and incisive orator, whose fame is not limited by the confines of the commonwealth, and whose devotion to he cause of the gallant head of on ticket dates many months back of the convention that nominated him. We anticipate a successful Republican meeting in Los Angeles next Saturday night, and urge the friends of Col Markham in the city and county of his home to unite and make it one of the grandest demonstrations of the many that will be held at the same time throughout the State. The Republicar County Committee is charged with the duty of making all arrangements, under the general direction of the State Committee.

The movement looking to a series of joint political debates between the Hon. W. F. Fitzgerald on the Republican side, and the Hon. Stephen M. White on the Democratic side, continues to meet with favor. State and Senatorial questions will be ably discusse and we do not doubt a favorable 18846 for the Republican cause. A revival of the old-time practice of joint debates in county after county throughout the State cannot fail to do good. not only edify but enlighten the popu ace, who, standing face to face with the orators, will be sure to take an interest in the questions discussed which they might not acquire from reading alone. These gentle-menare foemen worthy of each other's steel, and they possess the confidence of their respective parties in a measure which entitles them to speak for each. The mass of the people of both parties naturally desire to see the contest brought on, because they have no particular favorites in office to either shield or deify and are quite willing to have their respective champions on the stump "hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may." It is only a few measly sycophants, like the Trombone gang, who are fearful that their vulnerable favorites will get hurt in the conflict, that covertly oppose the coming joint debate. We are fatigued of such canaille, and bid them go off.

Sons-Today's Celebration. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] Final preparations have been made for the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the admission of the State of California tomorrow. All day long the crowds on the streets have been increasing and every incoming train has brought hundreds of Native Sons and Daughters, ploneers and other visitors from every neers and other visitors from every section of the State. Delegations headed by bands of music have been parading the streets from the ferries to their quarters, and every indication is given that tomorrow's celebration will be one of the most successful everseen in this part of the country. Flags and bunting of every description are displayed all over the city, and in the business portion the decorations are the most elaborate ever attempted here. Nearly every business house has made special efforts to show its appreciation. Bronze and stuffed grizzly bears are to be seen everywhere, and along the route of tomorrow's procession are scores of large paintings illustrating scenes and incidents connected with the early history of California.

Next to the thousand of American flags which float in all parts of the city, one of the most conspicuous decorations is the old bear flag of the California Republic. Immense Crowds Witness Some Exciting Boat Races. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] An immense crowd of Native Sons and others gathered at Long Bridge this morning to witness the barge and Whitehall races. Much delay was occasioned by the tardiness of the contestants, and it was late in the forenoon before preparations for the first race were completed. The course was from a point abreast of Channel street to a point off the wharf Channel street to a point off the wharf of the Union Iron Works and return, a distance of two miles. The tugs Sea King and Sea Queen accompanied the racers around the course, the former earrying visiting journalists and the latter the regatta committee, their lady friends and local newspaper men.

The first event was an amateur single scull race, with the following entries: Ariel Club, Harry Tirrill; Piomeer Club, M. Stokes and W. J. Eilis; an extent that he had to withdraw

It was evident from the start that he had the best of it. At the turning stake he was a dozen lengths ahead, with Lynn of the Stockton Club in the lead of the fallowing fleet. At this point Stockton was pulling strong, but as he attempted to make the turn, however, he unshipped an oar, and in a flash was floundering in the water. There were five starters in the second event, the professional scull race. The Ariels had two representatives, Henry Peterson and W. H. Growney. D. T. Griffin carried the colors of the South Ends and the Union Club of Stockton entered Henry Henceman. Under a stipulation Peterson and Henceman allowed the other contestants 36 seconds' start. The signal, "Get away," was given at 11:45, and the three unhandicapped scullers shot away in a bunch. Thirty seconds later Peterson and Henceman struck in after the leaders, the former taking the lead of his chief competitor at once and widening the gap between them to the turning stake. About a quarter of the way over the course he began to pass the other one at a time, and was in the lead at the turn, Denny Griffin second and Henceman back in the crowd, saving himself for one of his great finishing spurts. Peterson held his lead well for over half the return course, when Henceman and Griffin began rapidly to close the space between them and the leaders. It was an interesting finish, the three professionals straining every muscle and the thousands of spectators the three professionals straining every muscle and the thousands of spectators on the wharves encouraging their favorites with enthusiastic cheers. That had been done by Commissioner Black. It was a wise practice. The charge that Commissioner Raum had given him undue advantage in the completed files order was an unqualified faisehood, and furthermore, it would be absolutely impossible for the Commissioner to favor him. The River and Harbor Bill Awaiting the President's Signature-Dis-trict of Columbia Business in the House.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON (D. C.,) Sept. 8.-[By the Associated Press. | Senate.-The Senate this morning agreed to the conference report on the River and Harbor Bill without division. The bill now goes to the President.

The Tariff Bill was taken up. Mr. Plumb offered an amendment imposing a tax of $1.25 per gallon on dis-tilled spirits. He said he offered it because he believed it would be neces-sary to have the additional revenue thus provided, $21,508,000, to meet the requirements of the Government. The reduction of revenue, which the bill as it passed the House would effect, was $71,000,000, and by restoration of the tobacco tax in the Senate that reduction had been diminished to $60,000,000, qualified by a somewhat ambiguous statement from the Finance Committee that if importations were kept up on the present scale, notwithstanding the increase of duties, the reduction of revenue would be only about $20,000,000. Mr. Plumb went on to give a resumé of appropriations for the year and to urge that appropriations for future years would not fall short of those for this year, and would, in regard to pensions, etc., largely exceed them. In fact he should be greatly surprised if in the next three years payment on account of that law would not amount to $60,000,000 a year.

Mr. Berry asked Mr. Plumb how many applications had been received under the new pension law. Mr. Plumb gave the number at over four hundred thousand.

Mr. Cockrell—There will be between 600,000 and 700,000 to $00,000 applications under that law, and the appropriation under it would amount to at least $60,000,000 a year within the next three or four years. He estimated the expenditures of the Government at $450,000, and said there would be a deficit just as sure as the rising of the sun.

Mr. Dawes opposed the amendment because the increased tax would not apply to whisky on hand, which would thus be appreciated in price to the amount of $5 cents per gallon, and also because the would not admit by implication that the pending bill would result in a deficiency.

The amendment was rejected—yeas, 447 mays, 38. The reduction of revenue, which the bill as it passed the House would efon card clothing from 50 to 25 cents per square foot. Rejected.

The sugar section was then taken up, the immediate subject of consideration being the Finance Committee's amendment to the paragraph imposing duties on all sugars above No. 13 Dutch standard.

Mr. Sherman argued against the amendment and in favor of the House proposition, which would allow all sugars under No. 16 Dutch standard (including good qualities of brown sugar largely used by the people,) to come in free of duty.

The amendment was agreed to—

Mr. Quay offered an amendment, fixing the duties between No. 13 and No. 16 at 3-10 of 1 cent a pound; between No. 16 and No. 20 at 6-10 and not above 70 at 1 cent. Mr. Manderson moved to amend Mr.

Quay's amendment by making the duty on all sugars above No. 20 at 8-10 of 1 cent per pound, instead of 1 cent.

Mr. Quay modified his amendment as suggested by Mr. Manderson.
Mr. Vest opposed the amendment. The refiners had now, he said, all they wanted. They had triumphed by the votes taken today, which put into their pockets millions and millions of dolars.

Mr. Quay's amendment was rejected.
The provision that in the case of an export duty imposed by any country, sugars from that country shall be suject to duties under the existing law was, after discussion, withdrawn.

Mr. Quay moved to include sugars from maize stems among sugars for which a bounty of 2 cents a pound is to be paid. Rejected.

to be paid. Rejected.

The next question was on the Finance Committee's amendment to include maple sugar among those for which a bounty will be paid. Agreed to—yes, 30; nays; 25.

All other amendments referring to maple sugar were agreed to and the time for filing, in connection with claims for bounty, was fixed as prior to July 1st, instead of June, of each year.

Mr. Frye offered an amendment to Mr. Frye offered an amendment to pay I cent a pound on sugar from imported molasses. There was, he said, a capital of two or three million dollars invested in it. The husiness gave employment to 400 American vessels and paid over eight hundred thousand dollars a year in freight to them. There is also on extensive cooperage connected with the business, and the whole industry would be destroyed by the bill, as absolutely as if struck by lightning.

The principle on which a bounty was to be paid on sugar from cane, sorghum and beet was the encouragement to be furnished to domestic agricultural interests. But the proposition now offered was practically to pay a bounty of 5 cents on the gallon on all molasses imported into the United States.

collected on such machinery since January 1, 1890.

Mr. Eustis moved to amend the amendment so as to extend it to machinery for beet and sorghum sugar.

Without coming to a vote, Mr. Aldrich said he would try and have all the amendments voted on tonight so as to have the bill at the stage of the third reading tomorrow morning. He also gave notice that he would (for the committee) offer an amendment that the bill shall take effect on the 1st of October, 1890.

The Senate then took a recess.

At the evening session, Mr. Casey addressed the Senate in favor of the reciprocity proposition.

The Senate then took a recess.

At the evening session, Mr. Casey addressed the Senate in favor of the reciprocity proposition.

Mr. Allison replied to remarks of Messrs. Reagan and Gorman this afternoon, accusing the Finance Committee and Republican Senators of discrimination against the South. He denied that there had been any such idea entertained. Wherein, he asked, has such discrimination been shown. Certainly not in the matter of rice. Had the State of Texas been discriminated against at the present session? Had not $6,000,000 been appropriated for the purpose of transferring trade from the Eastern seaboard to the most important Gulf port of Texas? Does not the Finance Committee propose to protect the wool of Texas? He, himself, had undertaken to protect the hides of Texas. Senators from Maryland said that there was not a line or page on the bill that protected industry in the Southern States. Where, Mr. Allison asked, was the coal of Maryland and West Virginia? Wasn't that protected? And where was the sugar of Louisiana and Texas? Did not that have a bounty of 2 cents a pound? The oranges of Louisiana and Florida were better protected under the pending bill than by the existing law. If there had been any discrimination it had been in favor of the South. As to cotton ties they had simply followed other manufactures of iron and steel, and as to cotton bagging it was as much used for the potatoes of New York and for the cotton crop of the South. As to cotton to add beet sugar machinery free of duty up to July 9th, he did not see why that small boon should not be allowed. It would not harm anybody and would certainly be no discrimination against producers of sugar from cane or sorghum. He would therefore vote for it, against Mr. Eustis's amendment of extend the privilege to cane and sorghum sugar machinery.

Mr. Eustis's amendment was rejected without yeas and nays, and Mr. Mandezson's was accounted.

privilege to cane and sorghum sugar machinery.

Mr. Eustis's amendment was rejected without yeas and nays, and Mr. Manderson's was agreed to—yeas, 42; nays, 11. The negatives were given by Messrs. Butler, Cameron, Carlisle, Cockrell. Coke, Gorman, Gray, Hearst, Teller, Réagan and Wilson of Iowa.

Mr. Gibson moved to reduce the sugar test from 80° by polariscope to 76°, and argued that 2 cents a pound bounty on sugar produced in the United States would be neutralized by the European bounty of 2 cents a pound on exported sugar, so there

United States would be neutralized by the European bounty of 2 cents a pound on exported sugar, so there would be really free trade in sugar.

Mr. Cullom addressed the Senate in favor of reciprocity between the United States and other nations, especially Mexico and Central and South America. He was not, however, in favor, he said, of such a system of reciprocity as would in the slightest degree interfers with the policy of protection to American industry and labor, but it was a question in this mind whether it would not be better to allow the whole question of reciprocity to reat with the President and Secretary of State, who had constitutional powers to make treaties with foreign governments as to reciprocity. As to Canada, he thought the attitude of the Dominion Government was not such as called for any speedy action looking to reciprocity. That government had pursued in many ways and for many years a policy of aggression toward the United States, and in doing so acted under the dominion of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, whose road had been built by aid of government subsidies, not for commercial but for military and political purposes. He mentioned the large subsidies by both the Dominion and British governments tosteamship lines intended to divert commerce from The amendment was agreed to—

The next vote was on the Senate amendment to same paragraph, increasing duty on the sugars above No. 16 6-10 of 1 cent per pound instead of 4-10, as in the House bill. The amendment was agreed to, yeas, 29; nays, 23.

unlimited faith in the future prosperity of Los Angeles. They have watched the growth of this city much closer than have the people who have been here for years, and are now convinced that the time for backward steps has passed. The steady growth of the past two years causes them to believe that within the next five years Los Angeles will become a city of over 200,000 souls. The same signs that hovered over Chicago a few years ago, are to be seen here, and the same scramble of outside capital to get a foothold has commenced in this city. Two-thirds of the big improvements, from the immense buildings to the gigantic railroad and street car systems in Chicago, owe their existence to outside capital. owe their existence to outside capital, and Los Angeles is going the same and Los Angeles is going the same way.

When capitalists see train-load after train-load of products, that can be furnished by no other country in the world, pouring out of Los Angeles, they can see a future that no one ever dreamed of for this country, and it is perfectly natural for them to head this way. This industry was never developed until the present year. The people thought too much of corner lots and small speculations to give their time to the development of the soil, but necessity has driven them to it, and they will soon discover that it is the best thing that could have happened to them. There are three or four big railroad and water schemes now on foot which and water schemes now on foot which will give employment to thousands of men this winter, and it is safe to say that Los Angeles has better days be-fore her than were ever before known. POLITICAL.

L. J. Rose as the Democratic Can-didate for Congress. It is stated in Democratic circles that Senator L. J. Rose has signified his willingness to enter the Congressional fight, and will accept the nomination if it is tendered him by the committee at San Diego on Monday next.

There is no question but what a strong effort will be made by the Democrats to carry the Sixth District. It is said that an effort was made to induce Hon. Stephen M. White to make the race, but he declined to do so under any circumstances, when Mr. Rose was selected. The Democratic leaders here say that he will be nominated by accla-mation, and will at once enter on a vig-mation, and will at once enter on a vig-orous canvass.

There is nothing new in local politi-cal circles, nor is there likely to be any-thing of much interest until after the formal opening of the campaign on Saturday next. The Democratic Con-gress Convention will follow on Mon-day, and on the 17th the Democratic ratification will take place in this city, and from this time on things are liable to be interesting.

The Library—A Call Upon Mr. Vandever.

Los Angeles, Sept. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times.] As a matter of interest to that large portion of the public that views with pleasure the growth of the public library. I ask your permission to inquire whether snything can be done to induce our Representative in Congress, Mr. Vandever, to take even the smallest interest in the library's needs.

The trouble in a few words is as follows: The law permits Congressmen to designate certain libraries as depositories of public documents, and upon being so designated, such libraries receive copies of the public records free of charge. The privilege, it need hardly be said, is a valuable one, saving an outlay of several hundred dollars a year, beside furnishing a supply of many books that cannot be bought at all, and which are at the same time almost indispensable.

In our local institution we have had

We have just received a communication, in answer to a letter addressed by the librarian to the Department of the Interior at Washington, in which Mr. Chandler, the First Assistant Secretary, promises us certain documents asked for, and concludes by saying: "It is to be regretted that the public library of Los Angeles cannot be made a depository of public documents, inasmuch as that city is by far the largest in Southern California, and the documents would therefore be brought within the reach of a larger number of the citizens of the district than if deposited in any other city. Mr. Vandeposited in any other city. Mr. Vandever, I think, would be entirely justified in transferring the depository from Santa Barbara to Los Angeles."

ADMISSION DAY.

A Gala Occasion for Pasadena.

OPENING OF THE LIBRARY.

A Splendid Structure-Well Stocked With Books—The Military Pa---rade and Exercises—Pro-gramme in Detail,

Today will prove the biggest Admission day Pasadena has ever had. A parade and field-day exercises participated in by seven companies of the National Guards, and the opening of a library building worth $30,000 are events of no common occurrence and Pasadena seems determined to make the most of them.

The town will be full of strangers and they will be received with gener-ous hospitality. The programme of exercises will occupy the time pretty well from 9:30 o'clock in the morning until early evening, so that there will be plenty to keep the visitors amused. turnout.

Arrangements have been perfected for all the events, and the competent committees who have charge of the affairs will see to it that there is no hitch in the proceedings.

Yesterday afternoon the Coloradostreet merchants, almost without exception, began the work of decorating their places of business and by sunset this handsome thoroughfare was radiant with flags and bunting. The other streets over which the parade will pass are also handsomely decorated. In iront of the library a huge flag floats gally in the breeze from the top of a lotty pole.
The exterior of the new building, in which interest chiefly centers, is elaborately trimmed with bunting, while the interior decorations are of corresponding attractiveness.

Half a hundred ladies were busy Haif a hundred ladies were busy all yesterday afternoon getting the vestry of the Universalist Church in readiness for the soldiers' luncheon. Tables have been erected with a seating capacity of 300. The supporting pillars are draped with bunting, vines are tastefully twined about the chandleiers and the pulpit platform is a mass of flags and palms and growing plants. The tables will all be laden with a profusion of flowers.

Sportmen's Park on North Los Robles avenue has been put in fine condition for the military manusures in the afternoon. Seats have been erected with a capacity of 600 people. An awning has been stretched over them so that the spectators will be comfortable no matter how hot it may be. Several sprinkling carts have . Company D, Ninth Regiment, of Pomona, will be the first to arrive, coming on the 9:23 train. Companys A, C and F, Seventh Regiment, of Los Angeles, of Anabelm and F of Sants Ans.

Will arrive on a special train over the Sants F6 road at 9:31 o'clock.

The parade will form promptly at 10 o'clock on Raymond avenue and Vinayard street and move over the following route: Up Fair Oaks avenue to Colorado street; west on Colorado to Pasadena avenue; countermarch on colorado street; west on Colorado to Colorado street; west on Colorado to Colorado to Los Robles avenue; countermarch on Colorado to Los Robles avenue; countermarch on Colorado to Raymond avenue; then on Raymond avenue to library building. Music will be furnished by the Ninth Regiment band of Pomona.

The exercises at the library will begin at 10:30 o'clock and will not last over an hour. Mayor Lukens will preside. The Polymnia Quartette will sing several selections and Abbot Kinney will deliver a short address. At the conclusion of the programme the military will march to the church and be served luncheon.

Today will be an eventful one in the history of Pasadena. It will commemorate an important era in the town's orate an important era in the town's growth and prosperity. The new library will be thrown open to the public—a splendid stone structure erected at a cost of $30,000, of imposing architectural beauty, located on a valuable site and complete both in its interior furnishings and exterior surroundings. Moreover it is well stocked with books. Its value to the city cannot be estimated in numbers and it will stand a lasting monument to our citizens' push and progressiveness. The military pageant and exercises will be impos-ing and interesting and will serve to illustrate emphatically the almost phe-nomenal progress Company B has made since its organization less than a year ago.

MARKHAM MEN WILL MEET.

An Open Air Meeting to be Held Saturday Evening on Hay-market Square - Drop in Insurance Rates.

The campaign will open for Markham in earnest in Pasadena next Satarday evening and the chances are the signal guns will be made to reverberate oud and long by the distinguished tandard-bearer's townsmen.

The Markham Republican Club has arranged to hold a big open air mass neeting on that evening in Haymarket Square. A platform will be erected and several distinguished speakers will be present from abroad to mingle their voices with local orators in outlining plans for the campaign and predicting sure victory for our home candidate who has opened the gubernatorial contest so auspiciously. The date was well chosen, as Saturday evening is the time set by the Republican State Central Committee for opening the campaign throughout the State.

The Markham Club is composed of an enthusiastic band of Republicans of the right stamp, and it requires no prophet to prophesy that the campaign work will be carried on in Pasadena as vigorously as in any town or city in the State.

Insurance Rates Take a Drop. F. A. Harnden, representing the Pacific Insurance Union of San Francisco, was in town yesterday effecting a general reduction in the existing insurance rates of about 10 per cent. This action follows as a result of Mr. Harnden's inspection of our fire department, water pressure, etc., and the assurance given him that an electric fire alarm system would be introduced at no distant date. This will be good news to property holders.

Before he reached the curbstone a man rushed up to him, deftly drew his gold watch from his vest pocket, wrung it off the chain and started to run. "Police!" shouted the old man, still retaining his grip on the thief's collar. There was no policeman in sight, but the thief did not wait to see one. With a quick movement he withdrew himself from the coat and ran off through the fast gathering crowd. The old man stood speechless for a moment or two, with his watch in one hand and the thief's coat in the other. Then he slowly walked off up Park row, carrying the coat with him.— New York Times.

scription of a fruit-ladder from one of the agricultural reports may prove useful:

Take a pole of any desired length, but not of large diameter, sharpen it at the top to a slim point, and several feet from the top put a fist iron band about it, or in case a band is not at hand it may be securely wrapped with wire to keep it from splitting. But the band should not be thick or have sharpedges, else it may cut or chafe the bark of the tree. If the grain is straight it may be split with wedges from the butt to this band, or it may be split with a rip-saw. Now spread it at the bottom to several feet in width—if the ladder is to be quite tall this should be from five to six feet or even more. Nail a brace temporarily across—the butt ends to hold them apart, and bore holes at the proper distances and at proper angles; or if the spread is not top great they may be bored before the pole is split. Rounds of tough, strong material may now be inserted, beginning at the top, first removing the brace.

Such a ladder may be thrust upward into a tree and placed in a fork or against a branch without danger of falling or being unsteady, and it has the additional advantage of being very light at the top and easy to handle. If desired, a third leg or brace can be added by hinging it to the top round a through a hole, thus making a step-ladder.

How Rata are to be Exterminated. [The Cornhill Magazine.]

The best course to take, when the extermination of a colony of rats becomes a necessity, is to make them help to destroy one another in the following manner: A number of tubs, proportionate to the quantity of rats in the place which it is desired to rid of them, should be placed about, the middle of each occupied by a brick standing on end. The bottom of these should be covered with water to such a depth that about an inch of the brick projects above. The top of the tub should be covered with a stout brown paper, upon which a dainty meal of bacon rind and other scraps dear to the rat palate figure, a sloping board, giving the rodents facilities for partaking of it. The feast should be renewed for several nights, so that all the rats in the neighborhood may get to know of the good food which is placed within such easy reach. When it is judged that this policy has been pursued long enough, the center of the brown paper should be cut in such a manner that any rat venturing upon it will be precipitated into the water below. It might be thought that the result of this would be to capture a rat, or at the most two, for every tub prepared; but no such meagre reward for the trouble that has been taken need be feared.

pared; but no such meagre reward for the trouble that has been taken need be feared.

The first rat to find his-trust abused and himself struggling in the water at the bottom of a tub soon recovers sufficiently from the shock to ascertain that there is a little island of refuge, on to which he clambers and squeals his loudest for help. Now, the squeal of a rat in trouble attracts every one of his kind within, hearing, and very few minutes will elapse before the victim of misplaced confidence is joined by one of his friends. The new-comer is as quick to discover the chance of escape from a watery grave that the brick offers as was the original victim, but when he attempts to avail himself of its presence it becomes apparent that there is not room for more than one upon it. The first comer resists with tooth and nail the efforts of his companion in trouble to dispossess him of his coign of vantage, and the squeals which form an accompaniment to the fight for a footing upon the brick attract more rats to the scene of the tragedy. The conflict waxes more and more furious as rat after rat topples into the water, and by morning bedraggled corpses in plenty will gladden the eyes of the man whose losses at the teeth of the rats have induced him to adopt this means of thinning their numbers. Some years ago the plan described above was tried in a city warehouse, with the result that more than three thousand rats were destroyed in a single night. thousand rats were destroyed in a single night.

The Olive the Poor Man's Fruit.
[Pacific Rural Press.]

While the orange is profitable, the apricot and peach quick growers, the apple hardy, the cherry a splendid pearer, the almond easy to raise and a safe tree to plant, yet to a great extent safe tree to plant, yet to a great extent the olive combines the most excellent qualities of all these trees. It is so hardy that it can be planted up to an altitude of 3000 feet, it is so profitable that it excels any other tree we have named, and while it is as easy to raise as the almond or the fig, it yet has other properties which none of these possess. Its fruit, whether pickled or made into oil, is a staple production. It can be kept for an indefinite period. To Destroy Insects.

The Boston Journal of Chemistry says that hot alum water is a recent suggestion as an insecticide. It will destroy red and black ants, cockroaches, spiders, chinch bugs and all the crawling pests which infest our houses. Take two pounds of alum and dissolve it in three or four quarts of boiling water; let it stand on the fire until the alum disappears; then apply it with a brush, while nearly boiling hot, to every joint and crevice in your closets, bedsteads, pantry shelves and the like. Brush the crevices in the floor of the skirting or mob boards, if you suspect that they harbor vermin. This evergreen fruit-bearing tree, indigenous to Japan, has only lately attracted the attention of botanists. It is a native of the southern part of Japan, attains a height of forty to fifty feet, and a diameter of two and one-half to three feet. The foliage, which is evergreen, resembles the magnolia, and is of a firm leathery texture. The fruit-blossom appears early in the spring and is of a firm leathery texture. The fruit-blossom appears early in the spring and the fruit ripens during the month of July. It resembles in shape a firm blackberry, an inch long by three-fourths of an inch in diameter. It contains a single seed stone of light weight. There are two varieties of this fruit, one dark red, almost black, and the other a light rose, which is su-

A Fruit Ladder.

1Paciso Rural Press.

As many of our readers are now busy picking fruit, and it is not always possible to reach all the fruit with an ordinary step-ladder, the following description of a fruit-ladder from one of the agricultural reports may prove useful:

Take a pole of any desired length, but not of large diameter, sharpen it at the top to a slim point, and several feet from the top put a flat iron band about it, or in case a band is not at time to keep it from splitting. But the band should not be thick or have sharp edges, else it may cut or chafe the bark of the tree. If the grain is straight it may be split with wedges from the butt to this band, or it may be split with a rip-saw. Now spread is at the bottom to several the propagation of this useful tree.

Mexico, and all Southern States of the Union.

The propagation of this useful tree is best carried on from seed to which it comes true, or by grafting scions from fruit-bearing trees on seedlings, which will thus come in bearing in a couple of years. The seed ought to be sown in leaf-mold and loamy soil, with bottom heat where obtainable. The same ought to be kept well shaded and mulched. mulched.

The natives of the provinces of Japan, where this tree forms small forests, say that the seed germinates best when, having been eaten by birds, it is passed through the excements into soft leaf-moid in shads places, when it germinates in a few days; or if the seeds have by accident been thrown in a rubbish heap, soil and other vegetable matter, on being cleaned away, say after a month's time, seeds have been found well spronted among the wastes.

nave been found well sprouted among the wastes.

The seed is light and ripens during July and August. Plants are not to be obtained as yet; the Japanese have never propagated the tree beyond the chance seedlings. There is no doubt this tree would be a most valuable acquisition for California.

Go Slow in Planting Citrus Lands to Ontario Observer. The contagious craze for setting out prune trees has invaded this distinctly citrus locality, and many have been infected with it. In our humble judgment, every inoculated man owning 10 acres of orange land in Ontario had better expend several hundred dollars on an antidote, rather than yield to the mad disease and plant his ranch to deciduous trees of any kind. A deciduous orchard pays well, and will, beyond question, ever be profitable, but it will never yield so princely an income as an orange or lemon grove. Growers of deciduous fruits have to compete with the entire world, while the growers of citrus fruits enjoy a monopoly which only the laws of nature can affect. In view of the limited ages of choice citrus land and the great value of same, it does not appear wise to plant such land to deciduous trees when there is such a vast area of cheap land that is equally well adapted to on an antidote , rather than yield to land that is equally well adapted to the production of such fruits.

Make No Mistake

If you decide, from what you have heard of fits cures or read of its merits, that you will take Hood's Sarsaparlia, do not be induced to buy something else which may be claimed to be "about the same" or "just as good." Remember that the sole reason for efforts to get you to purchase some substitute is that more profit may be made. Firmly resist all inducements, and insist upon having just what you called for, Hood's Sarsaparlila. Then you will not be experimenting with a new article, for Hood's Sarsaparlila is Tried and True.

"In one store the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's Sarsaparilla. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was, I had taken it, was perfectly satisfied with it, and did not want any other." Mrs. ELLA A. Goff, 61 Terrace Street, Boston, Mass.

We Are All Taking It.

"We could not be without Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the best medicine we ever kept in the house. My family are all taking it." Mrs. J. M. BAB-BER, San Joaquin and Fremont Streets, Stockton, Cal. Hood's Sarsaparilla
